Cuban Group of Patriots Demands Expulsion of Arias

Ousted President Of Panama Finds Enmity for U. S. Strongly Opposed

Organization Called "Friends of America" Charges Refugee Is Anti-American

HAVANA, Oct. 10 (AP)—Guest privileges obtained through a Cuban woman friend at the swank Havana Country Club for Dr. Arnulfo Arias, exiled president of Panama, were cancelled tonight by the Canadian trade commission here.

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Cuban patriotic organization called "Friends of America" tonight demanded that Cuba expel Arnulfo Arias, whose regime as president of Panama was overthrown after he fled here Tuesday.

In a telegram to Dr. Victor Vega, Cuban minister of interior, the organization said:

"Bring Vague Charge
"Senor Arias, ex-president of Panama, has just been overthrown and is in this city making insidious declarations.
"We request your ministry to ask Senor Arias to leave the country and keep silent."

What the "insidious declarations" were the telegram did not state, but Arias has said his administration had "certain differences" with United States authorities and has acknowledged that his orders against Panama-flag merchantmen had been "badly received" in the United States. He also is said to have referred caustically to Panama canal defense policies.

Group Friendly to U. S.
The friends of the Americans is a group which has been prominent for its forthright policy in support of the anti-Nazi cause in the European war, and is so strongly in favor of the United States that it recently collected aluminum scrap for United States defense use.

Leader of Arias Group Deserts Him

By HAROLD K. MILKS
PANAMA, Panama, Oct. 10 (AP)—A powerful leader in the exiled President Arnulfo Arias's own national revolutionary party turned against him tonight and promised support "even with force if necessary"—in carrying out the pro-American policies of the new government.

Thus the potential opposition to the new administration of President Ricardo Adolfo De La Guardia was virtually dissipated.

This support and the statements of the new president apparently pointed the way for quick repeal of Arias's ban on arms aboard U. S. merchant ships flying the flag of Panama.

Bishop Shaughnessy Urges Labor To Back Roosevelt's "Freedoms"

But Tells Convention To Distinguish What Is a Communist

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (AP)—American Federation of Labor convention delegates tonight considered resolutions proposing all-out aid to Soviet Russia after hearing a Roman Catholic dignitary say "I hope to God you can distinguish between Russia and international Communism."

The Most Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, bishop of the Seattle diocese, said that "where in Germany and Russia you see labor enslaved, you also behold religion suppressed. The Russian laboring man was enslaved and is enslaved."

Backs Roosevelt
Earlier, he departed from his textual comment on President Roosevelt's "four freedoms" (of speech and religion and from want and fear) to comment that the nationwide mail he had received as a result of recent pronouncements "indicates that eighty to ninety per cent of the people are fearing war while they are not consulted."

Alleged Spy Quoted as Saying Pouches Were Opened

By PAT McGRADY
NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—A slender, scholarly FBI agent today quoted a suspected German spy as having boasted that British diplomatic pouches were opened by a German agent in Lisbon, their contents photographed and the pictures flown to Berlin.

The agent, William Friedman, linguist, lawyer, statistician and student of agriculture and criminology, said the boasts were made by Erich Strunk, steward on the American liner Siloney and one of fifteen defendants charge with espionage conspiracy.

Take Moving Pictures
Thousands of feet of silent film were made by an FBI camera placed from four to six feet from Strunk and others who met about a dozen times between January 3, 1941, and June 28, when the ring was rounded up. The conferences were held in the office of William G. Sebald, American counter-espionage agent and key government witness who drew into the net the 15 on trial and 18 others who have pleaded guilty.

About 1,200 feet of film was introduced into evidence along with a statement, signed by Strunk following his arrest in Milwaukee, Wis., in which he allegedly admitted transporting "information of an espionage nature" across the Atlantic and naming a half dozen others as "spies for the German government." The films were not projected today.

Bus Driver, Six Children, Killed On Rail Crossing

Nine Other Youngsters Injured Near Memphis, Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 10 (AP)—Six elementary school children and the driver were killed today when a school bus was struck amidships by a passenger train twenty miles east of here.

Nine other children were injured, one critically.

The sheriff's office said those dead were:
Charles F. Priddy, 55, veteran school bus driver.
Jean Seward, 12.
Guy Anderson Jr., 13.
Hagan Austin Williams Jr., 7.
Alma Shirley, 7.

Melvin Finis Richmond, 11, and Murray K. Bryan, 9, who died later in a hospital but who was not immediately identified.

There were nineteen on the bus, including the driver.

The bus was thrown about thirty yards from the crossing.

"I didn't even see the bus until it was directly in front of us," said the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis engineer, Joe Darnell of Paducah, Ky.

"I slammed on the emergency brakes and cut the power, but I don't know if it did any good. There wasn't a chance to stop."

Nine-year-old Nancy Jenkins, one of the injured children, said in a hospital tonight "every child on the bus was screaming for the driver to stop."

Stalin Not Like He Is Pictured, Bartlett Finds

British Correspondent Describes Dinner at the Kremlin

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Vernon Bartlett, veteran British foreign correspondent and now a member of parliament, tonight described over the London radio the Anglo-American-Russian dinner in the Kremlin which he attended as a member of the British supply mission.

NBC, which picked up the broadcast, quoted Bartlett as follows:

"The table was covered with an unbelievable variety of foods, and with a bewildering selection of Russian-grown wines. There were a great many speeches, and above all toasts. During the meal we rose to our feet exactly thirty-four times in response to such toasts. On most of these toasts Mr. Stalin would get up from the table and shake hands with the recipients of the toasts.

"One of the toasts was in honor of the American flag with the RAF, who, it was brought out, had done tremendously well. The toast to the Americans was translated by Mr. Oumiansky, Soviet ambassador to the United States and at the end Mr. Stalin again rose, and walking half way over the head of the table, shook hands with the Americans.

"My outstanding impression of Mr. Stalin is that he differs amazingly from the popular conception we have all had of the man in previous years. I shall never forget watching him while attending a moving picture performance in the Kremlin in company of his guests following the dinner. Throughout the performance he sat smiling benignly at the films that were offered, utterly unperturbed by the booming of the anti-aircraft guns that reached us through the walls of the Kremlin."

New Lend-Lease Bill Passed by House 328 to 67

Republican Proposal To Bar Aid to Russia Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—With administration forces in full command, the House approved and sent to the Senate unchanged tonight President Roosevelt's request for a $5,985,000,000 Lend-Lease appropriation to continue aid to nations resisting aggression.

The rollcall vote on final passage was announced as 328 to 67, shortly after the members defeated, on a voice vote, an attempt by Rep. Lam-bertson (R-Kas) to eliminate the Lend-Lease fund from the omnibus bill in which it was contained. Also beaten was a Republican attempt to forbid using any of the money for Russia.

The measure contained a total of $6,139,552,799 and virtually all of it was directly related either to the Lend-Lease or national defense programs.

Amid repeated warnings that speedy action was necessary to continue the flow of the Lend-Lease supplies, the House rolled up impressive votes against attempts to reduce the appropriation for that purpose.

Defeat Anti-Red Move

Then, by the one-sided margin of 162 to 21, the House turned down an amendment by Rep. Rich (R-Pa) which would have denied to Russia any benefits from the appropriation.

The bill contained no reference to that nation and sponsors said that no such assistance was contemplated at present, but they insisted that the president should be given unrestricted discretion to distribute the money or war materials bought with it.

"The task today is the defeat of Adolf Hitler and no one should hesitate to place in the hands of any man the instrumentalities with which that might be accomplished," Rep. Woodrum (D-Va) asserted in the concluding speech of forty minutes debate on that question.

He joined Rich in expressing opposition to some acts of the Russian government, but he argued that "internal conditions in Russia" should not govern a member's vote.

Rich against Communism

"I want something in this bill to prevent the president from transferring one cent of this $5,985,000,000 to any nation which practices Communism," Rich shouted.

The first Republican amendment, by Rep. Case of South Dakota, proposed a $100,000,000 slash in the $1,190,000,000 to be spent for ordnance, ammunition, stores, supplies and parts.

That proposal was defeated by a vote of 133 to 84 and the members went on to reject, 135 to 83, an attempt by Rep. Engel (R-Mich.) to make a $60,000,000 cut in a proposed $385,000,000 fund for tanks, armored cars, automobiles and trucks.

Rich then lost, 116 to 69, an attempt to reduce by $40,000,000 a $850,000,000 fund for vessels, ships and boats.

All three contended that within each category, provision had been made for contingencies which could not presently be foreseen and that the totals for specific purposes could be trimmed.

Rep. Taber (R-NY) proposed to cut $300,000,000 from a $1,875,000,000 fund—the largest in the bill—for agricultural, industrial and other articles, but he lost, 97 to 71. Other money changes proposed and beaten were:

By Rep. Jones (R-Ohio) to cut $50,000,000 from the $285,000,000 proposed for necessary services and expenses; defeated by voice.

New Government Of Panama Gets U. S. Approval

Diplomatic Relations Will Continue Unchanged, Roosevelt Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced in effect today that the new coup d'etat government of Panama had received the recognition of the United States and that diplomatic relations with that country would continue unchanged.

At the same time, in response to press conference questions, he said he had received no reports which would indicate that Russia was about to capitulate before the Nazi onslaught and seek an armistice. Neither, he said, had he any knowledge of how his letter to Joseph Stalin, pleading material assistance to Russia, had fallen into German hands, but, he added, he had a hunch.

In addition, he announced plans for broadening the usual celebration of Navy day, Oct. 27, into an observance of total defense day. He said he would deliver an address that evening before a dinner of the Navy League.

While the president said only that diplomatic relations with Panama would continue unchanged, the general attitude here was one of satisfaction with the Panamanian change.

The former president of the republic, Arnulfo Arias, had been widely criticized as an opponent of democracy and a sympathizer with totalitarianism.

Arias left Panama for a visit to Havana, and in his absence, the Panama cabinet elevated Ricardo Adolfo De La Guardia to the presidency, an action which Mr. Roosevelt said today was legally taken under the Panamanian constitution.

One of De La Guardia's first acts was to issue a statement which said that his government recognized Panama's treaties, and would vigorously support democratic principles. These he said were menaced in all parts of the world and particularly in Panama, which he called the center of Continental defense.

Thus, the belief was expressed here that an important step toward securing the solidarity of the Pan American nations behind plans for hemispheric defense and resistance to the Axis have been achieved.

Spotters Mistake Buzzard for Plane

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Sirens wailed in a realistic touch to Salisbury's air-raid spotter tests today.

Mitchell Field Officers Report Maryland Has "Only Lax Area"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Maryland volunteer air raid spotters manned their posts as army planes, grounded by early rain and poor visibility, took to the air late today for a resumption of tests of the Eastern seaboard's aircraft warning service.

Criticism of Maryland's performance in yesterday's initial tests as the "only lax area" in the system was called "unfair and unjust" by Lieut. Col. Henry S. Barrett, director of air raid wardens and services for Maryland.

"The officers at Mitchell Field must assume full responsibility for the inefficiency—if there was any—of Maryland's spotters during the tests yesterday," Colonel Barrett said.

Criticism from Saville
Criticism of inefficiency came from Major Gordon Saville, executive officer of the first interceptor command at Mitchell Field, N. Y., who declared last night that they did not provide complete enough picture for interceptor operations.

Colonel Barrett blamed "faulty instructions" on the fact that Maryland spotters did not "spot sufficient planes," explaining that all instructions and orders came from Mitchell Field.

"There is entirely too much division of authority in the whole aircraft warning service," Colonel Barrett said. "We have been receiving instructions from a half dozen different men up there instead of from one man that knows all the facts."

Counter-Attacks Launched To Aid Reds in Escape From the Nazis

Soviet Forces Believed Safe from Encirclement for the Present; Retreat Orderly

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—The imperiled Red armies on the Bryansk front southwest of Moscow were reported late tonight to be withdrawing to a new defense line under the cover of night counter-attacks by selected units.

Here and also on the part of the central front more directly west of Moscow the Russians conceded that immense German attack units had made new advances. They said, however, that one of the main German plans of encirclement had collapsed and that the best of the Russian reserves were being hurried to the front to check further Nazi progress.

Red Positions Unknown

(There was no indication as to how far east of Bryansk the Russians were withdrawing, although a Berlin spokesman hinted that the Nazis in this sector may have pushed their advanced lines as far as Tula, which is 105 miles due south of Moscow.)

On the southernmost battleground of the central front, Red army units were reported to have raided Orel, rail city abandoned to the Germans, entering it at night and finding it largely safe.

The raiders, operating in the face of German artillery fire, destroyed three German tanks and scattered a column of motorized infantry moving through the town, army dispatches said. Orel is about 200 miles south of Moscow.

North of Orel the Russians were holding off the Germans with anti-tank guns and new, undescribed weapons in the hands of tank-destructor corps.

Russians Safe for Present

Generally the Russians appeared to be improving their position along their new lines of defense, even in the bloody Vyazma sector west of Moscow, and Red army dispatches insisted the defending armies now were safe from encirclement, at least for the time being.

The rearward action covering the orderly retreat in the Bryansk section was described as strong.

The pre-midnight communique merely described the fighting as particularly fierce in the Vyazma and Bryansk sectors on the central front and the Melitopol sector in the south.

Front-line dispatches documented the army's claim to continued maneuverability and power of counter-attack for the armies of the central front, which the Germans claim are pocketed and in process of annihilation. New Russian reverses were acknowledged, however, west and southwest of Moscow.

This was the panorama painted by the Red army on the ninth day of Hitler's greatest offensive.

The communique said these were being shelled.

The communique said eight Japanese paratroopers had been dropped inside the city, apparently with orders for the garrison, but two were captured and the rest killed before they reached the ground.

AFL-CIO Dispute Threatens Output Of Army's Tanks

War Department Greatly Concerned Over Trouble at Cleveland

(By The Associated Press)

An AFL-CIO dispute which is threatening to halt virtually all production of army tanks was reported yesterday by war department officials.

Expressing grave concern, they said this was the situation:

The Spicer Manufacturing Company of Toledo, Ohio, makes about seventy per cent of the transmissions for current tank output and for most of the half-tractor and "Jeep" combat vehicles. In turn, it depends upon a subsidiary, the Hillsdale (Mich.) Steel Products Company, for parts.

Spicer, with 2,000 employees, has a contract with the CIO United Automobile Workers. Among hillsdale 800 employees are some members of this union, but the AFL United Automobile Workers recently won a collective bargaining election there.

Trouble Closed Plant

Last week, fighting between AFL and CIO factions at Hillsdale led to closing of the plant, but it has since reopened and is operating with virtually a full force. CIO employees at Spicer, however, have declined to handle any more parts from the AFL Hillsdale plant.

Spicer officials said production of transmissions was continuing from parts on hand, but was falling off and would have to end with depletion of present stocks unless the situation changed.

Elsewhere, the defense-labor picture was spotted by a walkout at the Robins Drydock, Brooklyn, N. Y., the continuing AFL-CIO wrangle which is hampering steel production in Alabama, and several lesser labor disputes.

About 500 members of the industrial union of marine and shipbuilding workers (CIO) struck at the Robins Drydock, a subsidiary of Todd Shipyards Corporation, to protest, union officials said, employment of two non-union men. Saying that the walkout probably would last until Tuesday, a union official indicated it was intended also as a show of strength to speed collective bargaining negotiations.

Ship Repairs Delayed

Robins employs about 1,700 workers and has been busy repairing British and American ships, both merchant and naval.

After standing idle part of Thursday as the result of an AFL walkout, the Fairfield Steel Works at Birmingham, Ala., were back in operation yesterday.

There was no word from the management as to how many of the 11,000 employees were at work, but the AFL said operations were far below normal and declared there was probability of a strike at iron mines of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company which operates the Fairfield plant.

AFL electricians and mechanics walked out at Fairfield Wednesday night because, they said, the CIO established union card inspection lines outside the gates and attempted to force AFL members to join the CIO steel workers organizing committee.

Other labor developments:

Seattle—Work on a $2,500,000 defense housing project was interrupted when AFL teamsters struck, protesting that AFL electrical workers were infringing on their jurisdiction by operating equipment used to hoist poles in place.

Auburn, N. Y.—AFL machinists demanded that the Hammond and Irving Steel Company recognize their union as sole bargaining agent, negotiate a wage agreement, and restore all employees as of Oct. 2. About 150 AFL members walked out Wednesday protesting, they said, discharge of a worker for union activity.

Jackson Hopes O'Connor "Will Keep Pledge Not To Run Second Time"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Mayor Howard W. Jackson today side-stepped a question whether he would be a candidate for governor in 1942, but said:

"It does seem to me, however, that anybody who has ambitions for the governorship has a right to assume that the field is wide open and that the present governor will keep his pledge to the people of Maryland not to be a candidate for the second time."

Jackson made the statement in an interview, dictating it as part of his answer to a question whether he intended to be a gubernatorial candidate for 1942.

"I have nothing to say about the governorship. It is too early to consider the subject or to make plans, and I haven't made any," Jackson said.

The field is "wide open," he explained, because Governor O'Connor ran for office on a platform with a plank providing a single term for the governor, and supported the amendment to the constitution to limit the office to one term. The amendment was defeated by the voters in the general election last year.

Mayor Jackson has traveled to the Eastern Shore and Western Maryland in recent months, making speeches and conferring with Democratic leaders. Political circles have termed his travels groundwork campaign trips.

German Forces Reported within 105 Miles of the City of Moscow

Nazi High Command Claims "Break-Through" on Long Front

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—German troops, declared by the high command to be advancing everywhere along a 110-mile-wide "break-through" in the Russian lines, were reported without official confirmation tonight to stand within 105 miles of Moscow on the south and to be preparing to pass the capital with the intention of surrounding and strangling it as Warsaw was strangled in 1939.

The picture of the front officially drawn was of a great inverted arc pressing ever inward from the vicinity of Vyazma on the north-east—an arc gradually thrusting forward on its lower end and finally enclosing the surviving Red armies at the center. Behind all this, it was stated, was a chaotic series of encirclements being drawn to a tighter and tighter close and crushing hundreds of detachments of Red troops.

Invaders Turn North

Authorized sources, however, went much further to imply that the lower end of the closing semi-circle had been in fact extended to a point which was east of the longitude of Moscow although south of that city, and that at that point the invaders were turning sharply north, intending to pass Moscow to the east and then cut it off.

Moreover, reports were current in Berlin that Tula, only 105 miles below Moscow, 125 miles northeast of the previously captured position of Orel and astride the long and vital railway running from the capital far south to Kharkov in the lower Ukraine, was now in Nazi hands.

"I can't confirm that officially," said the military spokesman, "but certainly I have no desire to deny it."

To inquiries based on other reports that the southern Nazi armies had broken through into the north of the Crimean peninsula he returned, "I can't confirm it; wait for the special high command reports."

Crimea Not Mentioned

The high command in its mid-day communiqué did not specifically mention the Crimea but declared that to the east of there and along the northern shores of the Sea of Azov on the route to the Soviet Caucasus the same sort of encirclement had been drawn about the Red Ukrainian armies as had been completed along the Central front.

Over the Azov harbor of Mariupol—which lies south of the city itself—a city declared to have been reached by German speed troops some days ago—German airmen were declaring to be strewn hundreds of bombs among a fleet of small ships in which it was claimed that the Russians were trying to escape by sea.

"One after another of the transports which the Russians hoped to board sank before their eyes," a German pilot reported.

He added that long trains and truck columns were bringing Russian troops to the harbor and said these, too, had been under heavy unending aerial attack.

Russia Reported

Soviet union rather than surrender.

One Russian informant of non-axis persuasion, who has close diplomatic connections and whose information in the past has been reliable, said the Germans had offered to accept Soviet capitulation through intermediates in Bulgaria and Japan.

Says Reds Consider Offer

He said he understood the Russians had taken the offer under consideration because of their precarious military position and because British aid had not yet been substantial. However, he added, the Russians are continuing their bitter resistance in the hope they may be able to inflict heavy losses on the Germans and thus reduce the German armistice stipulations.

A foreign source in London offered with reserve a report that the Germans might give Russia an armistice if Russia would dissolve her Western armies, turn over all her airplanes to the Germans and place her factories under German direction. This source considered these purported terms as questionable because they contained no mention of a demand for oil. He considered the matter a trial balloon sent up by Berlin.

British sources greeted the reports with vehement declarations of disbelief and a Russian source in London said:

"There is not a word of truth in the report. The Germans know we would not accept an armistice if it were offered."

A Berlin commentator said: "We will fight until the last Russian division is annihilated."

aggression from Nazi Germany. Practical considerations consequently make it expedient that we extend as much assistance as we can to help Soviet Russia fight the German war machine."

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters sponsored a resolution for all-out aid to Britain, China, Russia and their Allies.

The convention voted to reduce the number of AFL vice presidents from fifteen to thirteen.

Counter-Attacks

The Germans advanced north of Orel, some 200 miles south of the capital, after taking the city, but now have encountered a solid Red army line and are proceeding with caution, feeling out the defenders with groups of from thirty to sixty tanks but meeting fierce resistance and counter-attacks.

West of Moscow, the Vyasma sector, the German advance goes on at several points, at the price of enormous losses. The pick of the Red army is marching up to meet the attackers at this point, some 125 miles from the capital.

On this front the German plan of entrapment has been broken by repeated counter-attacks. The hero of this battle was the famous Red general, Ivan Boldin, who earlier in the war led a "lost division" which, after forty-five days of fighting, reached the main Russian lines from an original entrapment near Minsk.

Another dispatch related the epic of the battle for the river "V" in which a Russian unit, encircled after a vicious attack by German planes tanks and artillery withdrew to a prepared anti-tank area, carrying back their artillery supplies. Using this area as a base, the unit systematically destroyed German tanks, cut roads and separated the German infantry from its armored spearheads. Then it gradually withdrew from one anti-tank area to another, holding off the Germans and finally breaking through the encircling lines to the main Russian force. Then, with full equipment, it was able to occupy new positions.

German Losses Enormous

Southwest of Moscow: on the Bryansk sector, the Germans are pushing ahead, but only over "mountains of corpses." At first the attackers were routed here, but they put tremendous forces into their newest push.

Again today the Red air force was in the skies. Large scale operations reported to Moscow included the destruction by two squadrons of 100 German tanks and 300 trucks, more than half of them filled with troops. Forty-one fuel reservoirs also were reported destroyed over a period of three days.

The fighting went on at the approaches to Leningrad in the north and above the sea of Azov, around Melitopol, in the south.

Army spokesmen let no one feel complacent about the defense.

"The situation is very serious," Red Star said.

"We know that final victory is ours, but victory never comes by itself and the road to it is thorny. Without losing calm, unshakable confidence in a victorious conclusion of the war, we have no right to minimize to the slightest degree the greatness of the danger now threatening our fatherland."

Mail to Britain

Strunk told Sebald that H. Duarte, an unapprehended defendant, was "the main German official in Lisbon."

"Was there any conversation about an attack?" asked assistant U. S. Attorney T. Vincent Quinn.

Englishman Involved

"Yes," replied Friedman. "Strunk told Sebald that Duarte had access to all diplomatic mail from and to London x x x that Duarte had introduced him to an Englishman and that Duarte had instructed the Englishman to bring all diplomatic mail to him."

"Duarte made microphotographs (Stamps) pictures which later were enlarged; of it, so it was read in Germany about the same time it arrived in London."

Wanted Washington Mail

Friedman said that on April 25—while eavesdropping on another conversation between Sebald, Strunk and Siegler discussed the best means of obtaining Washington-bound diplomatic pouches.

"Strunk said he had seen Captain X, an Englishman, again on the last voyage," testified Friedman. "He said Captain X again was carrying diplomatic mail between London and Washington."

Friedman said Strunk and Siegler here debated whether the pouch could be stolen and that Siegler concluded "the best way was to grab the pouch and push Capt. X overboard."

"Sebald told all of them to refrain from any violence," said Friedman, "and that he wanted no homicides or assaults."

Skunk Catcher Asks Pay Increase; Not a Scent More Promised

MENOMINEE, Mich., Oct. 10 (AP)—City Skunk Catcher Victor LeBrun demanded a 100 per cent increase in salary today because he has ruined three suits of clothes since taking office a week ago.

He trapped six skunks in the city during the week. He argued that his job merited compensation equal to that of the city dog catcher, who is paid $2 for each pickup. LeBrun receives $1 per skunk.

One city official commented on LeBrun's request "I don't think he'll get a scent more."

Government Asks Early Trial for George Viereck

Two Secretaries of Rep. Fish Questioned by Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The government asked trial "at the very earliest opportunity" today for George Viereck, German-born citizen of the United States, on charges of withholding information when he registered as a foreign agent with the state department.

Viereck, who had been arrested in New York Wednesday on an indictment returned here, pleaded innocent when arraigned before federal Judge James W. Morris. Counsel agreed on a two weeks period during which to contest the legality of the indictment.

Seeks Early Trial

William Power Maloney, special assistant to the attorney general, told the court that the head of the justice department was desirous that the case be tried as soon as possible because of the "seriousness of the crime." When he started to expand on this by telling the court that the evidence would show Viereck to be head of Nazi propagandists in the United States, he was halted by the objection of the defendant's counsel.

Judge Morris agreed to continue the $15,000 bail which had been fixed in New York.

Meanwhile, the grand jury which indicted Viereck questioned two secretaries of Rep. Fish (R-NY), Walter J. Reynolds and George Hill.

Mail Surrendered

Yesterday, Hill was directed by District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough to deliver several mail sacks to the grand jury by noon today or explain why. Today the sacks were removed from outside a House of Representatives storeroom used by Fish and delivered to the grand jury.

Finis Scott, House postmaster, said the delivery was made at the written request of Hill.

The Justice Department contends that originally the sacks, reported to contain franked speeches of members of Congress opposed to the administration's foreign policy, were in the office of Prescott Denny, secretary of Make-Europe-Pay-War-Debits committee, which Viereck is alleged to have helped organize.

Baltimore Plans To Greet Duchess And Duke Today

British Notables Scheduled To Reach City This Afternoon

By EDWARD O. ETHELL

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—City officials, relatives and old friends of Bessie Wallis Warfield quietly are laying out the welcome mat for the arrival tomorrow afternoon of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Police will keep expected crowds at a distance from the little whistle stop station at Timonium, north of here, where the royal couple and their party will leave the train bearing them from the Duke's Canadian ranch.

When Timonium they will be whisked a mile to Salona Farms, home of General Henry M. Warfield, uncle of Baltimore's famous "daughter" and host on the pair's first visit to Baltimore. General Warfield met the duke once, at a naval academy reception in 1919, when the Prince of Wales, Windsor, was touring this country.

Quiet Family Reunion

Until sometime after next Tuesday it will be rest and quiet and family reunion for the man and "the woman I love" for whom he gave up a kingdom almost five years ago. From Baltimore they plan to visit New York.

There will be a small family dinner tomorrow night at the roomy, converted farm house; Sunday, a buffet luncheon for relatives and close friends, then a dinner for another informal group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deford.

Peak For Public Monday

The general public will get its only scheduled peek at royalty Monday. Police are prepared to handle thousands of people expected to line the streets along which the duke and duchess will drive from an official city hall reception to a tea to which 800 select Marylanders have been invited at Baltimore country club.

The little cavalcade will pass within sight of 212 east Biddle street where Wallis Warfield lived and played as a girl. For a time after the abdication of Edward VIII, the row house was "the Wallis Warfield museum."

General Warfield said today that he was leaving entirely to his guests any further plans, the acceptance of any of dozens of invitations awaiting their arrival.

"I suppose Wallis will want to show the Duke around a bit," he added.

Convicted Forger Runs Wrong Way

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Oct. 10 (AP)—Charles Hicklin, just convicted of forgery, ran the wrong way when he broke from three sheriff's deputies outside the courthouse.

He ran smack into a crowd of 200 California peace officers emerging from a convention dinner nearby. His flight ended there.

More Executions Mark Nazi Drive To Halt Revolts

Two Frenchmen Shot in Paris; 25 Czechs Get Death Sentences

(By The Associated Press)

German firing squads and military courts slashed at the continent's internal front of revolt again yesterday (Friday). Two Frenchmen were shot in Paris for possessing firearms without permit and twenty-five Czechs, one of them a government farm official, were condemned to die in Prague and Brno.

The Paris executions raised to seventy-five the total due to alleged violations of the rules laid down by the conquerors or in reprisal for attacks on German soldiers.

In Czechoslovakia, by last reports, considerably more than 100 persons had been executed as the result of what the Germans call a treasonable plot.

The usual charges—"economic sabotage and possession of weapons without permit"—were leveled against the twenty-five condemned today in the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate.

45 Communists Interred

Fifteen "militant Communists"—the term is used nearly everytime a citizen of the occupied lands is hauled in by the Germans—were interned in France's Somme department, raising to forty-five the number so arrested within the last several days.

In old Yugoslavia, where the German troops and pro-Nazi Croatian rebel bands strong enough to seize state guards have been busy against village and storm large towns, the Germans stated that twelve "Communists" had been killed and twenty captured in new disorders in the capital, Belgrade.

The trouble, however, went on. Two members of the German road-building organization were shot dead by rebels in Bosnia.

The exiled government of Greece stated in London that the spirit of rebellion in that conquered country also has risen high and that resistance was nation-wide.

Crete Villages Burned

That government asserted that the German army had burned three Crete villages and executed non-combatants to smash revolt on the island and that in eastern Macedonia Bulgarian military authorities had sent a punitive expedition to suppress rebellion there. It was claimed that the Bulgarians "indiscriminately murdered more than 3,000 civilians."

In Amsterdam, a Dutchman was reported executed for attacking a German policeman and possessing weapons.

The Netherlands exiled government in London declared that the German authorities had sent the following notice to the editors of Netherlands newspapers:

Dogs in War News

"Severe action will be taken unless the practice stops of publishing a whole page of pictures of dogs on the main news pages when Hitler meets Mussolini or Horthy (the Hungarian regent), or when the German army has made sensational advances on the eastern front."

"We are just as tired of this as of articles ventilating public complaints about food shortages and coffee that does not taste like coffee."

An item from Vichy suggested that French-German relations were solidifying: The German envoy leased a villa for a new German consul to be installed shortly.

Ousted President

al revolutionary party, which Arias himself founded and built to power as his personal political machine, called on all Arias partisans to rally around President De La Guardia.

New Regime in Control

The new government, already strongly backed by the national revolutionary party which opposed Arias, thus appeared firmly in control of this strategically placed republic.

Fifty-two "high-ups" among supporters of the Nazi-inclined Arias were listed as in custody.

The cabinet met for two hours today, but made no announcement concerning Arias's order against groups for merchantmen, which was issued Monday a few hours before his flight to Cuba.

It was expected to be considered in the next few days, but since it was merely a cabinet council ruling, not a law, the possibility was seen that it might simply be ignored as if it never existed.

Besides the fifty-two jailings announced by De La Guardia's government, informed sources said several other henchmen of Arias probably also had been arrested.

Flash--Thailand Invade Ohio School

OXFORD, O., Oct. 10 (AP)—Miami University professors, seized in relief a few days ago when Swastika Nithibon, Annua Phoonphibutana, Poopern Krairaksit, Anonda Sivadhana and Voraded Phongsipak and Pisoot Sudana, all from Thailand, completed their courses and left the university.

But hardly were they gone than other Thailanders registered as Karoon Kengradomying, Phalaydhin and Anona Napombejara.

The professors decided to call "em all "Joe."

City May Oppose Signing Contract

Greater Part of Labor Program Faces Rejection at Monday Meeting

Discussions by the mayor and city council, meeting to consider a program of wage and working conditions for Cumberland's street and water department, yesterday were dominated by the terms of a proposed bill, now under consideration by the legislative council, which would ban state, county and municipal employees from joining outside unions and striking.

No official statement was made following a special meeting called by Mayor Harry Irvine to discuss recommendations made by Commissioner Edgar Reynolds and William J. Edwards for workers in their departments but it was indicated that the greater part of the program might be rejected when the council holds its regular meeting Monday.

Council members however, agreed with a statement of the commissioners contained in the recommendations that "no valid labor agreement as such may be entered into by the mayor and city council with a labor union."

The commissioner's proposal, submitted to the council Monday, recommended an eight-point program which included retention of the current wage scale, fixing the work week at forty-five hours, time and a half after eight hours in day, and one week vacation with pay after a year of service.

Representatives of the workmen expressed disapproval of the recommendations because they did not provide for a signed contract, holidays with pay, or union recognition.

Early Invasion Of Europe Looms

Formation of British Corps of Shock Troops Announced

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 11 (AP)—Formation of a corps of shock troops whose rigorous and highly specialized training implies that they are primarily meant for an invasion of the continent was announced by the war office today.

The corps, called Command Units, is made up of picked men from every branch of the army who are trained both in amphibious warfare and to operate independently on land for long periods without assistance of supply and maintenance organizations.

Both officers and men are described as having steady sea legs for work on deep water and as being trained in handling small craft. They have had practice in rapid embarkation and disembarkation by day and night in all sorts of weather.

The corps has swum in full equipment and marched long distances over difficult terrain on scanty rations, and has been taught jujitsu and proficiency in the use of all infantry weapons.

Furthermore, the men have been taught to use "enemy" weapons, and "as these troops may be used on land in guerrilla operations," the war office said, "they may have to learn to work in small parties or even as individuals."

No indication was given of the size of the corps.

Fair, Cool Weather Predicted for Today

Fair and cool weather is predicted for today and fair and warm for Sunday.

Showers last evening dropped the temperature here to forty-eight degrees at midnight after a pleasant day during which the maximum hovered about the seventy-eight degree mark.

The rainfall of Friday morning measured .03 inches here and despite light showers last evening an old-fashioned northeast is needed to receive the honest-to-goodness wells in the outlying districts and the parched and baked soil.

Elkins, W. Va., reported a temperature of forty-two degrees at midnight, the lowest figure for the area within a radius of 100 miles of Cumberland.

Four Births Are Reported Here

Mr. and Mrs. James Millenberger, Route 1, Ridgeley, announce the birth of twins, a boy and a girl, yesterday afternoon at Allegheny hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barb, 406 Franklin street, yesterday morning in Allegheny hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sheetz, Sr., 111 Weber street, announce the birth of a son on Oct. 4.

Mitchell Field had to be changed due to the inaccessibility of the places. Some of them were in valleys where a spotter would be useless.

The chief air raid warden declared that five control centers were established in the state although Mitchell field requested them only ten days ago. One observation post in the state made sixty-three reports to the Baltimore filter unit during the day, he added.

TWO MORE BLAST VICTIMS LEAVE HOSPITAL HERE

Two more victims of last Thursday's explosion left Memorial hospital yesterday and one will probably be discharged today. All others remaining under treatment in local hospitals are improving.

William Fazenbaker, 22, 305 Johnson street, Westernport, and his father, Thomas Fazenbaker, 62, 305 Johnson street, Westernport, both of whom suffered burns on the hands and face, were discharged yesterday.

Thomas M. Bareis, 41, 225 Fayette street, who suffered lacerations of the right cheek, lacerated elbows and abrasions which leave Memorial hospital today, attaches said. His condition was critical for several days following the blast.

Theodore Hershberger, 53, Cresap town, who suffered a fractured right leg and burns about the hands and face, was also injured internally. An emergency operation was performed on Hershberger the night of the explosion. His condition, at first quite serious, has improved, and he was reported last evening as "slightly improved."

G. R. Lipscomb, 70, St. George, W. Va., is improving at Allegheny hospital from deep burns of the hands and face.

25 Attend Conference To Plan Action against Rising Cost of Living

Twenty-five representatives of labor, fraternal organizations, small businesses, and volunteer fire companies met last night in the Rubber Workers hall to discuss plans for organization of the Conference on National and Living Defense, Mel Fiske, labor representative, announced.

A conference will be held Sunday, November 2, in the Textile Workers hall to plan a campaign of action against profiteers among both big national concerns and a few instances in small businesses, Fiske said.

When Europe First Plundered America

FOUR HUNDRED FORTY-NINE YEARS AGO, Christopher Columbus's discovery related America to Europe. It was a discovery only so far as Europe was concerned. There was a not inconsiderable population in the Western Hemisphere when Columbus arrived.

The Mayas were leading peaceful, civilized lives. Their buildings, extensive ruins of which still survive, were of remarkable beauty architecturally. They had a written language. They raised cotton and made good cloth. They made beautiful ornaments of gold. To achieve so much they must have been a rather decent, orderly people.

Likewise the people of Peru were rich, prosperous and considerably enlightened when the Spaniards, as a result of Columbus's discovery, began to clean up on them. They had so much wealth that several centuries of European robbery were required for the conquerors to dispose of it.

This may seem a bad start for commemoration of Columbus day. Columbus was unquestionably one of the great characters of history. His knowledge, pre-eminent in his time; his matchless courage in backing his theories and his devotion of a lifetime to objectives in which he believed, make him worthy of honor throughout all time.

But Columbus, with all his skill and wisdom, was badly worsted by the spirit which prevailed in Europe. Today it is fitting to magnify the name of Columbus. He carried through a magnificent enterprise and got a shabby deal at the hands of those who ought to have bestowed on him highest honors. He died in poverty and only centuries afterward was his true worth appreciated. America owes him a debt of gratitude.

A Beautiful Show Whatever the Cause

ANNUALLY, when the reds and yellows begin to appear in the woodlands, the comment is heard "Yes, it's beautiful—but just wait until after the first frost!" The old folk-tale concerning the part frost plays in the color changes of the leaves dies hard.

Those who have studied those changes assert that frost plays no part in the process. It is a matter of chemistry not yet fully understood. Throughout the spring the leaves are colored green by the presence of chlorophyll, a strange plant substance, which converts carbon dioxide and water into food for the tree. When the season begins to wane, the chlorophyll slowly changes to another form, known as plastids. The plastids have a chemical coloring known as carotenoids, which react to sunlight and cooler temperatures. Some of them turn bright yellow, others turn red.

Another color factor lies in the amount of plant sugar trapped in the leaves when the branches cut off the sap veins in preparation for winter. This plant sugar reacts to chill nights and changes color, sometimes to red or purple.

Thus the brilliance of autumn is not brought about by the first frost but from the chemistry of the leaves themselves.

Anyway, to use an old expression of the play world, the show's the thing. This one is transcendently beautiful whatever its direct cause. And it is free to all, which is something to say in these days of high taxes, high costs, priorities and what not.

Election Canceled Overlook Something

WASHINGTON RUMORS that certain New Dealers are investigating the possibilities of calling off the 1942 congressional elections continue to circulate.

The reason why the New Dealers would want to avoid an election next year is not hard to find. While they may talk in a noble way about calling it off for reasons of "unity," they are in fact desperately afraid that the American people will not be too pre-occupied with foreign affairs to register their resentment at the inefficient administration of the defense program and the failure to solve the countless domestic problems for which the New Deal has been trying to "buy time" for eight years.

Rumor hath it that the brain-trusters plan to postpone the election on the authority granted by the constitution under Article I, Section 4, Clause 1, which states:

"The times, places, and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators."

Although the intention of this clause was clearly to provide uniform election methods and the authority to make the regulations lies solely in the hands of Congress, it is said that the New Dealers who wish to avoid an election feel they can command enough "rubber stamps" to push their plan through, especially since the members of Congress who would vote for postponing the election would in effect be freezing themselves in good paying jobs.

In advancing this un-American plan, those responsible for it are totally ignoring another and very plain constitutional provision. Article I, Section 2, Clause 1, reads:

"The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states."

Such rumors appear fantastic to orthodox American citizens and ordinarily should be dismissed as idle chatter. Yet the country previously has mistaken fantastic New Deal schemes for idle chatter only to have them subsequently materialize—such as the supreme court packing project. Thus, in this case, to be forewarned is to be fore-armed.

Maybe We'll Live Like the Indians

WELL, it seems that if you want to build a new home or if the city, county, state or federal governments want to erect some buildings they'll have to ask Donald M. Nelson, OPM priorities director, if it will be OK with him. If he figures you will not use any materials necessary in the U. S. A. defense program you can go ahead and build.

But you mustn't use steel, copper, bronze, brass, aluminum or iron, the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board says in giving the public the news of its latest crackdown on civilian progress.

You can, however, make yourself a mud hut or an Indian wigwam without any fear of Mr. Nelson's accusing you of interfering with our national defense. If you have "substantially completed" a home the SPAB will "try" to get you the material to finish it, but if you can get along by using wooden pegs in place of nails it will be helping the SPAB.

It is estimated that about 1,500,000 American workers are employed by the construction industry in non-defense work and the SPAB offers no suggestions as to how they are going to keep on eating regularly.

The SPAB leaves you only one loophole. If you can prove that you are building a home because it is necessary for your health or your safety you can get a limited amount of materials. Just who will decide whether your health requires that you have a home is not announced, but it is possible that we'll have another board, a brand new group of crackpots of the Ickes type.

Army Maneuvers Yield Some Valuable Lessons

THE SPEECHES made by army commanders following the first maneuvers were admirable. The generals not only discussed the technical triumphs and failures of the maneuvers, but by implication reported to the people on the condition of the army after a year of intensive expansion and training.

All branches of the army were handicapped in the maneuvers by lack of weapons and to some extent by shortage of transportation. But enough equipment was available to send some units into the maneuvers under war conditions. These units made long, forced marches under difficult conditions. The work of the engineers in providing the means of moving large bodies of troops across rivers and swampy lands was especially commendable. All the army commanders commented on the stamina of the men. These men are, of course, carefully selected after rigid physical and mental tests. Apparently they are as good as any soldiers in the world.

From these maneuvers the army is learning many valuable lessons. The commanders had their first experience since the World war, when many of them were junior officers, in working with large bodies of troops. These lessons will be applied both to the organization of the army and to its equipment. The people have reason to feel that their army is progressing as satisfactorily as conditions permit.

Paul Mallon Column Will Resume Tuesday

FOR the information of readers who have been inquiring whether The News has suspended the daily Paul Mallon column of comment, it should be stated that the column is expected to be resumed with the release of October 14.

Mr. Mallon has been laid up by a siege of illness, and advice just received from the syndicate which distributes his writings are that he is expected to resume his column on the date stated.

In spite of all the planning, no shortage in blueprints has been reported.

The North Wind

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I have heard it said that the North Wind made the Vikings . . . and I believe it.

When I was younger I did not understand the meaning of that saying and I did not believe it. I thought then that a man made himself. . . He said, "I will be strong"—and WAS strong. He said, "I will be a leader. I will be a great inventor. I will be a genius!"—and behold! he was in fact what he has said in his heart that he would be.

But now I know that it was the great wind from the north that made the Vikings strong and made them challenge the forces of the blast, build their ships, and brave the oceans and range the seas in their little wooden boats. . . I am not so foolish, however, as to believe there were no cowards among the Vikings. There must have been some who could not bear the great wind but who put on women's clothes—or so the bard avers—and stayed at home when the great horn blew strong men forth to adventure. Yet it was true of the great majority of the Vikings that they felt safer in the storm than before the leaping blaze in their banquet halls. They were sons of the Great Wind and they knew it.

But if we believe that "the North Wind made the Vikings" we must also believe that a mean and unchallenging life also makes weaklings. . . The child to apron strings, give him no freedom, chain him to poverty and slums, cheat him of all bold horizons, give him no opportunity to develop the best that is in him—and you are likely to produce a cringing, sullen, pathetic and dangerous slave.

As it is true there were bullies and cowards among the Vikings who lived in the North Wind, so sometimes a great man emerges from a meanly narrow environment. Magic is made within the spirit and he lifts himself above the beaten mass, mints his golden spirit into precious coins that inexhaustibly enrich our common life. He is challenged by the very chains that hold him down and he breaks them apart.

But this is a rare miracle. The mean life degrades more than it challenges. It is the free life of struggle that makes the Vikings!

Ceiling on Profits A Ruinous Scheme, Gen. Johnson Says

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—"If you put a ceiling over prices, especially if you put one over wages and farm prices, you will have to put a ceiling over profits of business."

This is one great bugaboo that is holding up anti-inflation legislation—notwithstanding that every important authority, new or middle-of-the-roader has testified that inflation is the most dreadful danger that now confronts our people.

In furtherance of that threat we hear "in war there shall be no profits." We see bills introduced limiting business profits to six percent on capital investment and other similar balmy lunacies.

Look at them more closely and you will find that they are largely a confusion of terms, uttered mostly by politicians who either don't know or don't want to know what they are talking about.

What is a "ceiling" over prices, including wages or farm prices? It is no cost-of-living restriction. It doesn't reach back and reduce any price. It simply says:

"These increases have gone high enough. They shall not go any further upward without a showing, in the case of wages, that increases in the cost of living justify it or, in the case of farm prices, that they have not reached the long-promised goal of 'parity'—fair exchange value in terms of the prices of the things the farmer buys."

That in itself is a exible rule. For, just as labor wages will go up as fast as the cost of living goes up, so also will the price of the things the farmer sells go up as fast as the price of what he buys. That is the "ceiling" plan as it applies to labor and agriculture. At it applies to business, prices can go up, but only where for some special reason and for its own purposes government permits them to go up, in a certain degree—but no further.

Reaching Backward
But that is not what the opponents of price ceilings propose when they say there must also be a ceiling over profits—say six percent on invested capital. That doesn't propose a ceiling over profits as of a certain day. It proposes to reach back indefinitely on an arbitrary rule or no rule at all and, for most new and small enterprises, to a point that would bankrupt most of them and on most old and highly capitalized and powerful monopolies or great corporations to set a limit higher than most of them have enjoyed for a long, long time.

Wages have been going up, prices have been going up to a point where the beginning of a robust inflation is already here. But generally speaking net profits, whether figured as a percentage either on investment or sales, and regardless of multiplied businesses, haven't been going up. Mounting state, local and federal taxes have taken so large a portion of them that net advances in profits have been prevented.

Taken by Taxes.
The new tax legislation will actually reduce them. Government hasn't taken forty percent to eighty percent out of wages and farm prices, but it has or shortly will take as much as that out of profits.

There is hardly a voice in this country raised against the slogan "Take by Taxes All Profits Due to War." We are doing that and we are going to do it further.

But, that is a very different thing from this new slogan: "In War, Take All Profits."
That simply ruins the capitalist system and our plan of free enterprise. It is creeping Communism or Nazism.

It would be as sensible as to say: "Don't put a reasonable limit on high wages and farm prices due to war to prevent inflation, but in war take all wages and confiscate all farm products." It is high time to get quick and common sense action on the Price Control bill.

HIS HAT IN RING

Thomas E. Cook

Getting a head start more than a year before the 1942 primary election, Thomas E. Cook, 47-year-old Frederick manufacturer, already is carrying on an active campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Cook, so far the lone candidate to announce from either party, says he is an independent.

A QUESTION OF SAVING THE SKIN FIRST AND THE SOUL AFTERWARD

Bureaucratic Drives To Swell Youth Aid Agencies Are Held Reprehensible

Tobacco Substitutes

From the Providence, R. I., Evening Bulletin

Sir Stephen Tallents, poor fellow, has sent out a call for tobacco substitutes. Tobacco is pitifully scarce in England. So is there not, O gentle and voluminous Smoker, some recipe which you can share with Sir Stephen out of your well-remembered past? Some fragrant, ingenious mixture of happy and well-remembered leaves which will mitigate his present sorrow? For he must hand his portion in the hollow of his hand and extend its flavor with some sweet addition.

Canon Wyatt, of Ashton on Ribbles, has suggested raspberry leaves. Raspberry leaves and coltsfoot, a mixture which Mr. Parker, of Sibthorpe, Notts, somewhat dubiously endorses as "smokable but not unpleasant."

Mr. J. Symms, of Pilgrim's Rest, Canterbury, has written that the sundried leaves of the chrysanthemum are very good when mixed half and half with tobacco. Inmates of almshouses, it seems, have smoked this thrifty mixture for years.

There's sweetfern, of course, and dried grape leaves, and cornsilk. But somehow they haven't the adult, experimental flavor of raspberry and chrysanthemum. Indeed, the whole problem is most difficult for the pampered American, whose smoke is not only enhanced by all the perfumes of Arabia but whose amateur ingenuity has long since been surrendered to the professionals.

Yet now is the time for all good smokers to come to the aid of Sir Stephen, and we should be happy to pass on to him any suggestion in the way of sweet incense which you might feel moved to burn on the altar of international friendship.

Superhighway Problems

From the Altoona, Pa., Tribune

In his report recently Chairman Walter A. Jones, of the commission in charge of the superhighway, stressed its benefit as a "double-edged military weapon" in urging immediate construction of a 1,800-mile network linking the industrial centers of the midwest with the major cities of the Atlantic seaboard.

"Had Poland possessed comparable highways, the Polish army could have assembled quickly, and could have met the invader at the frontier," Jones opined.

Superhighways are needed for just that purpose. But it must be remembered that in case of invasion, the superhighways are usable only if the air above them is controlled completely by United States planes.

During peace times, superhighways without doubt will harm seriously tourist trade. If the present one is extended to the Ohio state line and to Philadelphia, tourists will whiz through Pennsylvania scarcely realizing they've been in the state. It's up to the state to publicize properly along the superhighway attractions which will take tourists off into the byways.

Morning Motto

Let us endeavor to live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry.—MARK TWAIN.

BY MARK SULLIVAN

About the condition here described, all I know is what I read in various newspapers. The first item is from the Binghamton, N. Y., Sun. The date is quite recent, October 4.

"A conference of seven county National Youth Administration supervisors will be held this morning in the Broome County NYA office," it states.

"Highlighting the session will be the discussion of a drive for more youths to replace the rapidly diminishing ranks of young men and women who are finding employment in defense industries. . . . Finding replacements is becoming acute. . . . The seven county area director will attend the meeting and is expected to outline the plans for the setup in the drive for NYA workers."

A few weeks ago Mr. Paul V. McNutt, administrator of NYA (and also of the Civilian Conservation Corps), issued an order to his staff forbidding solicitation of enrollees. Mr. McNutt's orders said that "selection of youth for enrollment . . . will be limited to those eligible youth who without solicitation apply for work." Assuming the account quoted above from the Binghamton Sun of October 4 is correct, use of the word "drive" seems hardly in line with Mr. McNutt's order.

Shortage Evident

Part of the function of NYA, as formally described is: "Provides part-time jobs for needy young persons who are out of school and unemployed." Evidently the number of youths so situated is not, at this time, sufficient to provide as many enrollees as the authorities managing NYA would like to have.

About the Civilian Conservation Corps, there has been definite announcement in Washington within the past ten days that pressure solicitation of enrollees has been discontinued, and that some of the government appropriation will be returned to the Treasury. The following item, describing what went on earlier, during the summer, is from the Camden, Maine, Herald of July 24:

"Short of men for the first time in its eight years of existence, the Civilian Conservation Corps has opened an intensified recruiting drive for new enrollees in all nine corps areas of the country, it was announced yesterday."

"Permitted to have a total of 300,000 men in the Civilian Conservation Corps, authorities disclosed that there were probably only 210,000 to 220,000 now on the national rolls. Recruiting of new men has been unprecedentedly slow and discouraging. . . . Authorities are pessimistic and in many cases frankly puzzled over the problem presented by the failure of additional young men to join the ranks."

The function of CCC is like that of NYA. As formally described, the function is to provide employment and vocational training to young men between 17 and 23, who are "unemployed and in need of employment."

Double Pull from Jobs

Here is, or recently has been, a remarkable situation. Here are two government agencies whose function is to provide for young persons out of employment. And here, during the summer, has been such a demand from private industry and agriculture for workers as the country has rarely seen. Here also is the government taking upward of a million young men who have jobs away from their regular employment, to serve as soldiers. And while all this goes on, here are government employees energetically soliciting youths to go on the rolls of NYA and CCC.

From another point of view, that of the taxpayer and government finance, here is the government spending enormous amounts of money for defense, borrowing most of the money, increasing the government debt far beyond what it ever was before. Here is the government, laying upon tax-payers the heaviest burden they have ever had to bear. And at the same time here are government employees, the ones who compose the permanent staffs of NYA and CCC, striving to keep those organizations larger, and have them spend more money, than they normally would.

Natural Working
For the "why" of it, I turn to yet another newspaper. The Washington Daily News thinks this sort of thing "is a natural working of a bureaucracy. . . . Bureaucracies, like human beings, react to the first law of man, which is self-preservation. . . . Whenever a governmental agency is set up it has to have management. That's the overhead. Once entrenched it will fight for its life."

The News, incidentally, thinks that something of the same sort goes on with the Works Progress Administration. About this I know nothing, except that newspapers of October 9 say that WPA workers are to be given an increase of wage rates about November first.

Anyhow, it is all something to think about when you pay your taxes. Much of the money you pay in taxes goes for defense to be sure, but more of it than is necessary goes for non-defense agencies.

Using Nazi Methods

By George E. Sokolsky in the New York Sun

It strikes me as curious that so often, these days, Americans imitate, not the long and tried chain of American experience, but the Nazi and Fascist techniques which they denounce and against which they are waging a war.

For instance, Secretary Morgenthau's proposal to confiscate profits above six per cent is a page out of Fascist procedure. In Germany such a limitation upon profits has been in practice a long time, with the result that the government there completely controls the means of production and distribution. It is a characteristic of National Socialism that government controls all phases of the economic life of the people, including the earnings from initiative, industriousness and thrift. The limitation on profits, which, in effect, is a further tax on savings and therefore a deterrent to private investment, forces industry to seek government aid in the form of loans or subsidies for private enterprise. In time all private enterprise becomes mortgaged to government, which forecloses all will.

It is astonishing that Mr. Morgenthau, who makes so vehement a noise of his opposition to the Nazis, should be the advocate of a principal tenet of Nazi economics for this country. Imitation is the sincerest flattery.

Census Rates an Important Issue In Pennsylvania

By CHARLES P. SEWART
Central Press Columnist

Unless Pennsylvania's legislature redistricts the state before 1942's congressional election, one big party or the other stand to make a formidable killing in the matter of seats in the next national House of Representatives.

Several state redistrictings are in order invariably, after each succeeding country-wide census, because with shifting populations, it always happens that a census shows a state here and there to have lost a little in the representational strength it's entitled to in Washington, with a few others gaining correspondingly. This calls for a readjustment of the boundaries of its congressional districts by the legislature of each of such states. Or else—or else what?

Well, suppose a state has, say, ten congressmen, chosen by their respective districts, and suppose that state gains a congressman, but doesn't redistrict itself. In that event it continues to elect its original ten by districts, as before, but the eleventh is elected at large—that is by the whole state, like a senator.

There usually are at least two or three congressmen at large on Capitol Hill and occasionally a state, which has grown rapidly and been derelict in redistricting, has more than one.

Two Lost in Discard

But suppose a state, with a congressman at large, having fallen a bit behind in its proportionate population growth, loses a seat, but doesn't redistrict. That state simply has its congressman at large lopped off. Some years ago Illinois and Ohio actually did lose a congressman apiece, but each had two at large, and one of each went to the discard, their pair of delegations remaining otherwise unchanged. It was rather painful for the congressmen who were cancelled, but didn't make much difference as to the general congressional alignment.

However, suppose a state with no congressman at large loses a seat and doesn't redistrict. Then that state's whole delegation is open at large at the next election.

Such is Pennsylvania's fix at present—unless it redistricts, which it doesn't act like doing.

Cut by Sensus

Last year we had a census. Under it the Quaker state is cut from thirty-four to thirty-three representational seats in Washington. It hasn't a congressman at large, but if it fails to redistrict, it'll have all thirty-three at large next season and the whole aggregation will be of the same political complexion.

Why the rival parties both hesitate to redistrict is easy enough to understand.

The state's traditionally Republican, but it's shown some Democratic tendencies of late. Of its present thirty-four representatives nineteen are Democrats; fifteen are Republicans. Senator James J. Guffey, a Democrat. Gov. Arthur H. James is G. O. P.

If the Democrats can carry the un-redistricted state in 1942, the will sweep a solid thirty-three vote into the lower congressional chamber, with no fifteen Republican mixed in. On the opposite hand the Republicans are hopeful that they can recover their old-time control of the commonwealth, which, if they can, will give 'em the whole thirty-three ballots at one shot, and if the election's at all close nationally, it may give 'em a representational majority in Washington.

Disposed To Gamble

They both show signs of a disposition to take a chance on it. Of course, a congressman in an area that's safely his way greatly prefers redistricting to his own interest, to accepting a doubtful statewide risk, but the higher-ups take a more comprehensive view.

A number of other states aren't redistricting, but there's no other state in which such a bloc of seats is at stake.

If that particular one doesn't redistrict, it may decide the partisan color of the next house of representatives—a matter of concern to the entire country.

Those census chaps raised the entire issue.

Gosh! Look how important their statistics are!

Nurses Aid Corps Is Unnecessary, Group Decide

Sentiment Is That There Is No Need for the Organization Now

The Volunteer Nurses Aid Corps was discussed at the meeting called by Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, chairman of home nursing for the Red Cross, last evening in the Red Cross class room in the city hall.

The sentiment of the group was that the corps is unnecessary at this time and that there are neither facilities nor need for it at present. The group voted to co-operate with the Red Cross continuing the home nursing classes and expressed a willingness to co-operate and help organize as many classes as possible.

The group discussed and decided that a correct list of all Red Cross nurses, both of first and second line defense should be available. The first defense includes nurses under forty who can go into service, and the second includes those nurses who are not eligible for service but may be called for work in the community. Miss Gladys LaRue, chairman for the Red Cross graduate nurses, appointed by the state was elected to produce the list.

Attending the meeting besides Mrs. Lichtenstein were Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes, chairman of the Maryland Council for Defense for Allegheny county; Mrs. Louise Coulahan, executive secretary of the Red Cross; members of the Alumnae Association of both Allegheny and Memorial hospitals; representatives of the staffs of both hospitals; Miss LaRue for the Red Cross graduate nurses; Nurses from both the Celanese Corporation of America and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. Miss Sadie Gladwin, county health nurse and representatives from both the American Legion and the Grace Methodist church, the latter two intended to begin classes in their own group.

Correct English Decline Is Noted In Schoolrooms

Statement by Dr. Myers Is Challenged by Milwaukee Educator

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
From the State Teachers College of Milwaukee, Prof. Neal Billings writes me a letter.

"I was very much interested in your column on 'Why This Slack in Grammar,' but I should like to raise some questions about it," he states.

"(1) Is there objective evidence that college students today are poorer in English and arithmetic than they were in days gone by?"

"(2) If college students are poorer in these subjects today, may this not be partly or entirely due to increased college enrollment which automatically brings in students of lesser intellectual ability?"

"(3) Is there objective evidence that the elementary grades of the country are shot through with the doctrine of 'incidental memory'?"

"(4) You imply that the learning of grammar will produce good written and spoken English. Is there objective evidence to prove this convention? Does not the formulation of good habits of English depend more on practicing correct speech and writing than upon the learning of grammar?"

"I am sincerely interested in your comments on these questions not because I want to prove you are wrong but because I want to find out the truth if I possibly can."

My Reply

"Dear Professor Billings: I want to thank you for your challenging letter. You have put me on the spot.

"As you already know, I must answer in the negative to all your questions asking for objective evidence derived from adequately controlled objective tests.

"I have talked to a great many teachers, possibly the wrong ones, of exact sciences in colleges and teachers in engineering schools, who are deeply distressed over the poor English and arithmetic of many of their students; and these subjects hardly draw dull students.

Based on Observation

"Concerning (3), my statements were based on what I observed in thousands of classrooms throughout the United States. In only one classroom did I see any 'boning' in the sense of individual repetition of the correct spelling of a word or basic number fact (as 8 and 9 are 17), with the word or fact being looked at by the learner; hundreds of situations in which children were tested on spelling or these number facts before the correct spelling of the word or the number fact had been learned. Frequently words were written or combinations used in 'motivated' exercises or problems before they had been mastered or studied as facts, on the assumption that the correct spelling or fact would be learned incidentally.

"Concerning (4), I contend that in addition to hearing and reading good English, the learner should profit from frequent drills in correct grammatical forms of those types most often used incorrectly, and also from acquired techniques for checking his own speech and writing critically — which good grammar teaching aims to do."

IN-A-TOP BROILER offers the last word in domestic broiling. It is actually smokeless, because it is a separate unit designed for broiling. No need to cut off the good fat that nature put around fine steaks. No need to put water in the broiling pan, thereby diluting the drippings. No need to move the steak down so far from the flame that it bakes rather than broils. No need for shifting hot broiler racks. With this smokeless, speedy unit, exclusive with Chambers, you can enjoy the finest "sizzling" steaks, chops, fish—in your own home. Serve them on the Sizzling Platter—the broiling pan. A big Griddle forms the Broiler top. Remember, too, that—

Uniform Ordered

Beall high school authorities in charge of the school band have ordered for thirty-five uniforms, for members of the band. Thirty-five students were measured, but there is insufficient money to purchase more than thirty-five at the present time. The remaining uniforms will be purchased when the necessary funds are secured.

A fund of $700 was realized last year from a mile of pennies campaign conducted under direction of Mrs. S. L. Sikes, who is now serving with the United States Army.

The uniforms will be blue and red coats, caps and belts, with white trousers.

Charles Beckwith, who recently joined the school faculty, is director of the band and Jack Hayes, drum major. The band will have fifty members this year, with thirty-five players and fifteen drummers.

The instrumentation of the band is well balanced, with a strong reed section and the usual number of brass instruments.

No Agreement Is Reached on Keyser, McCoolle Bridge

Delegates from Maryland, West Virginia and Washington Meet

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Road officials representing Maryland, West Virginia and the federal government met here today to consider the proposed new Keyser-McCoolle bridge, but no agreement was reached at the end of the two-hour conference.

According to the roadmen, the matter "is still under consideration." Main cause of disagreement was the location of the proposed structure.

Among those present were: Maryland—Major E. P. Whitman, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission; Frank Thomas, SRC member; Wilson Ballard, chief engineer; Walter Hopkins, bridge engineer; Austin F. Shure, survey department chief; and Herbert Bowers, member of the survey department.

Federal Government Represented—Federal government—C. E. Swain, district engineer of the Public Roads Administration; William H. Brewster, senior highway engineer for PRA in West Virginia; and A. C. Dunn, senior highway engineer for PRA in Maryland.

Mayor John C. Freeland also was present.

The West Virginia contingent insisted upon placing the bridge at a site which would route traffic away from the grade crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Main street here, and consequently would not agree to the new span crossing the river at the same place as the present one. (The old bridge is located at the north end of Main street.)

The Maryland commission objected to a suggestion that the bridge be built at a point further upstream on the grounds that it would mean another bad curve in Maryland, as the structure would still be below the "Y"—the junction of McMillen highway and the Westernport road—and that the cost would be more than Maryland could bear.

Gives Ultimatum—At the close of the conference, Bailey delivered a statement that had something of the sound of an ultimatum to the Maryland group. He said: "If you want to build the new bridge on the location of the old one, you can, but you will have to do it with your own money. If you build it so it will run on Mineral street (in Keyser) we'll meet you in the middle of the river in spite of the fact that Maryland owns to the low water line on the West Virginia side."

The new bridge would have to be built some distance upstream from the site of the present span to run onto Mineral street here.

The conferees broke up to "consider and study" all possible locations and types of construction. They said that after further consideration they would meet again.

Fisherman Catches Big Small Mouth Bass

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Three Martinsburg fishermen are convinced that there are still a few big small-mouth black bass in the South Branch of the Potomac and the Shenandoah rivers.

Charles Cook reported the prize catch to date, a five and one-half inch beauty, taken near Shannandale Springs in the Shenandoah. He was using artificial bait at the time.

Dr. Snider landed a five-pound five ounce bass while Floyd Combs reeled in a five pounder near Moorefield in the South Branch.

Diet Changes but Not Quantity

Americans eat about the same total quantity of food now as they did thirty years ago. But, according to the Agriculture department's Bureau of Home Economics, the composition of their diet has changed.

Consumption of wheat and other cereals, potatoes and apples, veal, beef and tea has declined. But consumption of vegetables (other than potatoes), citrus fruits, sugar, poultry, eggs, milk, manufactured dairy products (especially ice cream), edible fats and oils, cocoa, chocolate and coffee has increased.

While consumption of lamb and mutton, pork and lard, butter and sweet potatoes has varied during this period, the general level of consumption of those products has not changed greatly.

New Barley Strain Discovered in W. Va. Agronomy Department

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Members of the West Virginia Associated Crop Growers next year will harvest a new variety of barley discovered by the Agricultural Experiment Station of West Virginia university.

The Associated Crop Growers is an organization of farmers who cooperate with the station in experiments to produce better grains and livestock.

The new barley strain, disclosed by officials of the agronomy department, is designated by the number 1-35-274, but may eventually be named "Tuckwa." This, because the seed was selected from a mixed lot of seed obtained from Eugene Tuckwiler of Greenbrier county. The number means simply that it was first grown by the experiment station in 1935, from the two hundred seventy-fourth head (seed) selected for experiment purposes.

R. O. Weibel, assistant in the agronomy department, explained that there are two types of barley—hooded and bearded.

The hooded varieties as a rule are more productive, Weibel said, but many farmers prefer to handle the hooded types because they are easier to work with.

The advantage found thus far in 1-35-274 is that it strikes a productive medium between the two varieties and is easy to handle.

Fort Hill Sentinels Defeat LaSalle 13-6

Breaks of Game Aid Hilltoppers In City Contest

Rain and Wind Storm Hampers Teams—Losers' Defense Sparkles

Fort Hill high's Sentinels opened defense of the city scholastic football championship by overcoming a stubborn LaSalle Explorer eleven 13-6 last night before approximately 1500 fans at the Fort Hill stadium.

The breaks of the game set up both of Fort Hill's touchdowns as the Explorers surprised their supporters by turning in one of their best defensive contests of the season. Time and again, the Sentinel backs, playing behind a husky forward wall, were thrown for losses.

Coach Johnny Long's crew stuck entirely to ground plays and except for LaSalle's touchdown drive in the third quarter, kept the Blue and Gold at bay. On the other hand, in the last half, Pat Conway's Explorers had several scoring chances but their attack bogged down at the crucial moments.

A heavy wind and rain storm put in its appearance soon after the kickoff and made playing conditions very poor. The ball became slippery causing a number of fumbles, while the high wind made for hazardous punting.

Wade, Cheney Shine
Captain Boyd Wade and Marcelus Cheney stood out on the Fort Hill attack while George Geatz and End Johnny Small were the Explorer sparkplugs.

A recovered fumble on the LaSalle thirty paved the way for the Sentinels' initial six-pointer in the first quarter while in the third chapter, a bad kick by Small that was caught by the wind and carried back from the LaSalle twenty-four to the two resulted in Fort Hill's other touchdown.

Fort Hill made one first down in the opening half. After Jim Snyder recovered Geatz's fumble on the LaSalle thirty, Cheney on a reverse around left end, galloped twelve yards for a first on the eighteen. On three consecutive plays, George Evans crossed the Explorer goal, hitting right tackle for the final thirteen yards. Orrdoff's placement for the point was partly blocked and sailed under instead of over the crossbars.

LaSalle failed to make a first down during the first half and in the second period had possession of the ball only three times. On two of the occasions, Small punted on third down.

Field Goal Try Misses
Midway in the quarter, Fort Hill's Orrdoff attempted a field goal from the LaSalle thirteen but the boot was short. Just before the half, the Sentinels were knocking on the touchdown door but the whistle sounded as Charley Nestor toured right end for fourteen yards and a first down on the LaSalle three.

Fort Hill wasted little time getting its second touchdown as the second half started. The Sentinels kicked off and after two plays failed to produce even one yard. Small kicked. A heavy wind was blowing and the ball went straight up and then back, hitting on the twenty-four, the line of scrimmage, and then bouncing to the two-yard ribbon before being downed. On the first Hilltop play, Evans circled right end for the score and Wade plunged the point.

On the kickoff play which followed, Fort Hill was penalized fifteen yards for unnecessary roughness to the Sentinel forty-five, from where LaSalle started its touchdown march. A pass from Geatz to Small was ruled complete on account of interference and another Geatz to Small heave and two line plays moved the oval to the twenty-five. After Bob Seefeld made three at right guard, Small, on an end around play, raced around left end for eighteen yards to cross the Sentinel goal standing up. Geatz, back to pass for the extra point, was smothered.

LaSalle Threatens
The Sentinels found their goal threatened again a short time later when Jim Lafey recovered a fumble on the thirty-two but on three plays, LaSalle lost one yard and Small's kick was downed on the eighteen.

The final round found the Explorers filling the air with passes. They tried live aerials during the stanza but failed to make even a first down as the Sentinels held for downs on their thirty and forty-five and a pass was intercepted on the Fort Hill forty-five by Paul Whitford.

Statistics give Fort Hill a big edge. The Sentinels registered eight first downs to LaSalle's two and gained 296 yards by rushing to the Explorers' sixty-four. Fort Hill didn't try any passes while the Conwaymen completed four of twelve for thirty-five yards with one being intercepted. Penalties were fifty yards against the Sentinels and thirty-five against LaSalle. The lineups:

Calamounds Battle Concord Crew Today

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 10.—The Concord Mountain Lions will be favored over the Potomac State Calamounds when the two eleven clash here tomorrow afternoon in the Cats' annual homecoming game. The kickoff will be at 2:30.

Coached by Jim Callahan, the Lions have compiled a fine record the last ten years. Concord seldom has large squads but its teams are usually fast and shifty.

Last year, the Lions lost only one game and claimed the West Virginia Conference championship. So far this year, they have defeated King college 7-6 and Salem college 20-0. The Callahan-coached crew includes many veterans and will outweigh the Cats almost twenty pounds to the man.

Old Stuff

NEW YORK.—The close pennant race in the National league this year was nothing new for that loop. Only nine times in the last twenty-five years has the flag been clinched before the final week. In 1934 the St. Louis Cardinals won the pennant on the last day of the season.

THE WORLD OF THE HUMAN

(After re-reading Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger").
This is the world that human beings made.
No lion or tiger ever had a vote.

No cobra crawling through the jungle shade.
No panther skulking in a Malay glade.
No leopard leaping at a hostile throat.

This is the world set up by human brain —
Not by the apex that scamper through the trees.
No one can charge it to the python's reign.
Nor say some mad gorilla led the strain
Of crimson spanning all the seven seas.

So let's not brand "the brute" with poisoned dye
Before he turns — and looks us in the eye.

THE WINNING AVERAGE
No loyal Old Grad from any of these universities can expect each of their games or most of their games is a point all out of joint. — If a point can have a joint. Even the Yankees and Dodgers, good enough to carry off a pair of pennants, won only two thirds of their starts, and football should be judged in much the same manner.

There are too many strong teams in the field today for old grads to keep expecting one victory after another. Many have now even reached the point of tossing out teams that happen to have lost a single game.

On this basis where would the Dodgers have been last spring when the Giants beat them three straight to open the season? As Bob Zupke once said, "Out in that Big Ten I can lose every game and still look good." And that might be true.

Accidents, tough breaks, injuries and other details can often make a difference of two or three touchdowns in a game. The psychological setup has wide ranges.

The main answer is that any team playing a first-class schedule can look back on a good season if it can win a majority of its starts. Last season, for example, Minnesota won every game — yet Minnesota had the closest possible calls against Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio State, against whom just a slender flap in luck the other way might have brought the gallant Gophers three setbacks.

That's the way football is. One or two breaks, especially in the passing game, can raise an abnormal amount of old-fashioned Cain. It has been that way every season, and this should be no exception.

Main Problems
The main problems now confronting rival coaches around the map are about as follows —

1. Beating Minnesota in the Midwest, where Michigan and Northwestern are conceded the only real chance.

2. Beating Duke and Tulane in the South. Colgate now seems to be Duke's hardest opponent, while Tulane has at least four tough games to win, including the Rice affair this afternoon.

3. Beating Fordham and Navy in the East. I don't think Fordham will be beaten. Navy's two hardest games should be against Pennsylvania and Notre Dame. These should be two nectarines, replete with juice.

4. Handling Texas in the Southwest. Oklahoma will be no romp today. As Matty Bell of Southern Methodist puts it, "Somebody will beat Texas, but I don't know which team it will be." Beating Texas will be a good day's work for anybody.

5. Stopping Stanford on the West Coast, especially in the circle of the Pacific Coast Conference. Stanford has at least five rugged opponents left on her schedule — all good enough to crowd back any team that might have a slight off-day.

Mississippi State, Santa Clara and Ohio State might be added to this list, especially the first named who's tallest barrier will be Mississippi.

The Terps devoted their final tune-up session today largely to defense against the Duke attack. The Blue Devils entrained tonight from Durham. Game time is 2:30 p. m.

Leahy Depending On Soph To Give Victory to Irish

Cool Weather Cheers Coach on Eve of Georgia Tech Battle

By ROMEY WHEELER

ATLANTA, Oct. 10 (P)—Soft-spoken Frank Leahy brought Notre Dame's football team to town today, hopeful that cool weather and the accurate passing of Sophomore Angelo Bertelli would give the Irish victory over Georgia Tech tomorrow "by one point—certainly not more than one touchdown."

The mercury, which had hovered around the 90's all week, dipped to a minimum of 64 this morning. "If it's cool," said Leahy, "we'll do little substituting. I hope the first team can play most of the game."

Irish at Full Strength
While Notre Dame expected to go into the game at full strength, Tech counted on only limited service from little Johnny Bosch, triple-threat senior tailback who was injured in the Chattanooga game, and none at all from Sophomore Wingback Pat McHugh. Both had leg injuries.

Coach Bill Alexander said he intended to start Bosch but doubted he could carry on. If this veteran is running, it will put the bulk of the offense and passing on Sophomore Dacey Eldredge, another undersize back.

"Dippy" Evans was expected to do the major part of the running chores for the Ramblers.

31,000 Fans Expected
Injuries or no, Leahy said he thought Georgia Tech would be "tougher than either Arizona or Indiana" which Notre Dame beat in its first two starts. He rated Bertelli—who has completed more than fifty per cent of his passes this year—as Notre Dame's biggest gun.

A sell-out crowd of approximately 31,000 is expected to jam Grant field by kick-off time, 3:00 p. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow. Notre Dame won last year, 26-20, and the Irish have taken ten of the eleven games played since the series started in 1922.

While this is taking place in the college world, the two main problems will be heading off the Chicago Bears in the West and the New York Giants in the East. Either can be beaten, but finding the way to do it is something else again just at this moment. North American Newspaper Alliance.

Harmon To Play Pro League Ball
Former Michigan Star Signs with New York Americans

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (P)—Tom Harmon, All-American halfback at Michigan, has agreed to play with the New York Americans of the American Professional Football League in their last four games of the season. Club President William Cox announced today.

He said Harmon would make his pro bow against Columbus at New York Oct. 19, and that his contract called for payment "at the rate of $12,500 for the season." Since the Americans' season was eight games, and Harmon will play in four, all of them in New York, this was taken to mean Harmon will receive $5,000 or $1,250 per game.

Cox said he received the following wire from the former Michigan ace:

"Arrived Laguardia field Tuesday night. Practice with your team Wednesday. Glad to be with New York American League club."

Middies Favored Over Lafayette

Navy Has Shown Power but Coach Larson Far from Satisfied

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10 (P)—Out to sharpen its attack for the big opponents to come, Navy takes on Lafayette's Leopards tomorrow in the last piekiss contest of the year in Thompson stadium.

A heavy favorite to hand the Pennsylvanians their third straight defeat, Navy will start its second team sprinkled with regulars.

But the Middies, striving for a third consecutive win, are expected to shoot the works. Navy has shown plenty of power but Swede Larson, Middle coach, is far from satisfied.

Lafayette, licked by Virginia 25-0 and New York university 6-0, has developed a new offensive and Hook Mylin, Leopard mentor, has bolstered his aerial attack.

Walter Zirkny, fullback; Charley Nagle, right halfback and Janky Sophomore Bill Ziener, left halfback, are expected to lead Lafayette's charge tomorrow.

Navy will take the field with two regulars—Willis Maxson, end, and Vito Vitucci, guard—in the lineup.

The SPORT TRAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(The Special News Service)—Some day the New York State Athletic Commission is going to get all tangled up in its verbiage sentences and floating phrases and wind up by suspending itself, a situation no more confusing than the suspension of Ray Carlen.

Ray Carlen manager Lou Nova, the boy who didn't know it was loaded. The commission, dissatisfied with Nova's showing against Joe Louis, has put Carlen in dry dock for six months, apparently acting under the theory that if the dog gets away with the sausages you can get even by kicking the cat.

The commission contends that Carlen was not acting in the best interests of boxing in telling Nova to hold back against Louis. Nova obeyed, neglecting only to hold back his chin.

The result was a fight which made a head cold a blessing. As an original Nova man we haven't been so disappointed since we stuck a penny in the slot and no gum came out, and in the future we'll keep our trap shut if we have the urge to say something about somebody beating Louis.

Louis No Ball of Fire
However, that's beside the point. The point is that Carlen mapped out a strategy which he thought might win for Nova, and, like it or not, a guy is entitled to do that. The commission's theory seems to be that a fighter should come out from his corner and start swinging. If he gets knocked kicking doing it, that's his tough luck.

That theory is too much like disqualifying a marathon runner because he didn't sprint the first 200 yards. If Nova had been able to stay away for fifteen rounds and peek out a decision and win the championship, no action would have been taken against Carlen, even if the fight left the Polo Grounds in need of fumigation.

As a matter of fact Louis himself was no ball of fire until he exploded with that right. To date we haven't heard any criticism of Joe's tactics.

The whole thing simmers down to the question of where the commission's legal authority ends and dictatorship begins. When a fighter must take his orders as to the kind of fight he must fight from three men who don't care whether he finishes fifteen rounds or on the floor so long as the customers get a show, well, it's pretty bad.

Bad as Nova looked, his performance left a lilac aroma compared with some of the decisions we've seen handed down hereabouts, and we've yet to hear a word of censure from the commission concerning these miscarriages of justice.

Doesn't Make Sense
If the suspension of Carlen was in bad taste that of Ray Arce, Nova's trainer and second, was worse. Arce had been hired to train the challenger. He did a grand job. He acted under orders in telling Lou to hold back. If those orders coincided with his own opinion, that made no difference.

The whole thing doesn't make sense. A fighter and his brain trust try to win in the way they think best. They weren't thinking of how the fight looked to the spectators, they were thinking of how to beat the other guy. In this case the theory was that by waiting until Louis had slowed down, and then firing the broadsides, the goal might be reached.

Louis got there first, with the biggest guns. That's all there was to it.

At any rate, the suspension shouldn't hurt Carlen too much. It will be more than six months before anyone wants to see Nova again.

New Pigskin Bowl Cast January 1 Almost Assured

Three of Last Year's Participants Already Defeated

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(The Special News Service)—With the football season still in its swaddling clothes, already almost an entirely new cast of characters is assured for the Jan. 1, 1942 bowl play.

Three of the 1940 bowl participants already have been defeated. The chance of two more to go through undefeated must be considered not worth taking, while the remaining three of the four bigger bowl participants are conceded at least a fair gamble to again qualify for consideration by the various bowl committees.

The teams which just couldn't wait to show they wouldn't be interested in Jan. 1 dates, or rather, that the Jan. 1 dates wouldn't be interested in them, are Boston college and Tennessee, Sugar bowl rivals last January, and Georgetown, which met Mississippi State in the Orange bowl.

The chances of Nebraska and Texas A. & M. to go through in a manner which would bring the bowl committees a "run-in" are none too bright. The Cornhuskers have Minnesota ahead of them, not to mention some strenuous exercises with Missouri and Oklahoma in their own league, and Bill Jones' squad was tapped quite solidly by Uncle Sam.

New Aggie Team
The Texas Aggies have sprouted practically a new team, with most of last season's regulars, including John Kimbrough, missing. They appear to face too many water jumps in their own Southwest Conference to escape a ducking, with Texas, S.M.U. and Rice all geared up pretty well this year.

Stanford, Fordham and Mississippi State seem to have excellent chances to finish their regular seasons without dented fenders, always taking into consideration the uncertainties of the game, which sometimes bring some weird results.

Stanford's "T" hounds, who defeated Nebraska in the Rose bowl, seem to have every bit as potent a machine as that of last season, and seem to be the class of the Coast, although results last Saturday indicated the only thing positive out of that way is the opinion of Florida.

Fordham has bounced up with another rugged, tough team harder to beat than it is to pronounce, which is pretty hard. The Rams, who were the Texas Aggie's opponents in the Cotton bowl last January, usually find a way to lose at least one game, but this year they seem to have the man-power to crash through, although their schedule is no setup.

Sugar Bowl Solons Busy
Mississippi State already has cleared two of its toughest hurdles in an under-rated Florida team and Alabama. If the Maroons can get by Louisiana State tomorrow they have easy sailing until they meet Auburn, Nov. 8, with their next test after that Nov. 29, when they take on Ole Miss. On the whole, it isn't a schedule that would give a coach nightmares, but that doesn't necessarily mean the team isn't good. The Tennessee schedule for a couple of years sounded like a man taking breathing exercises, but the Vols were plenty good, just the same, as they proved in post-season games.

It is noted that the Sugar bowl committee already is sending out weekly lists of teams which it is watching, but that means nothing right now as it's too much like using a telephone book for an exclusive mailing list. The New Orleans citizens are including everybody in as long as the record can stand scrutiny. When a team loses, it is included out.

12 on the 50
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (P)—There are only twelve seats on the fifty-yard line at Kyle Field stadium, where the Texas Aggies play their home games. An aisle runs directly up from the fifty-yard line except for the first few rows, so that only twelve of the 32,000 seats are in the coveted position.

Workmen Start Removing Debris At Blast Scene

John S. Cook Assigned Job; 28 Persons Questioned in Probe

Work of clearing away the debris at the two buildings wrecked in the explosion on North Centre street, Thursday, October 2, was started yesterday by John S. Cook and his crew, contractors of Cresap, Inc., just twenty-four hours after taking testimony in the investigation was concluded.

"It's an awful mess," remarked John S. Cook last evening, after he and his workmen had gone through the ruins, some of them removing clothing and other valuables from beneath the debris of the Heinrich and Jenkins haberdashery.

"Much of the clothing was in good condition," Cook said. "We removed the safe and cash register from the building and turned over other valuables to the proprietors of the store."

Other Buildings To Go

The contractor stated that after the debris is removed from the former Wilson property, approximately fifteen men will be put to work tearing down the three-story brick Gillette building, south of the two structures wrecked last week.

The first floor of the Gillette property was occupied by the Medical Arts Pharmacy, City Fruit Market and an empty store room prior to the terrible blast, which resulted in the building being condemned as unsafe after large cracks appeared in the walls.

Among the articles salvaged from the wreckage was a diamond ring and $73 in cash, according to police.

28 Witnesses Questioned

Two city stenographers yesterday were engaged in typing testimony taken in the investigation conducted here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and after their work is finished the full report will be forwarded to Governor Herbert R. O'Connor.

46 Reported Injured

It was disclosed yesterday that forty-six persons were injured before and after the blast. Twenty-five suffered injuries as a direct result of the explosion, twenty-three were hospitalized, two died and twenty-one suffered minor injuries cleaning up the wreckage scattered about on North Centre street.

A missing man, thought to have been buried in the debris following the explosion on North Centre street, Thursday, October 2, has been found very much alive by Police Commissioner Orr.

Orr received a telephone call on Monday from the Western Maryland Railway ticket agent, who advised the police commissioner that a man from Winchester, Va., had placed a package in a locker at the depot last Thursday morning and had not been seen nor heard for four days.

"Wouldn't be a bit surprised if he is buried in the wreckage on North Centre street," commented the agent.

"Did you inquire at the police station?" asked the commissioner. "No," replied the agent. Orr paid a visit to police headquarters, scanned the docket and then began to smile from ear to ear.

The commissioner discovered that the Virginian had decided to spend several days as a guest of the police department.

The charge—drunk and disorderly.

Believe it or not, Ripley, there are four different sets of dates for squirrel hunting in Maryland this year.

For instance, in Frederick county the season opened on September 15 and will end October 15, with no late season.

Garrett county's season opened yesterday and will run to the end of the month.

Sportsmen of Allegheny and Washington counties are warned to refrain from shooting the bushy tailed rodent until November 1 when the regular upland season gets under way; then they may blast away for thirty days, provided there are any squirrels to shoot at.

Elsewhere in the state the second, or late season, extends from November to December 31.

With so many different seasons for hunting this year even the state game warden got his signals crossed. And we can't blame him for telling us to shoot doves when we should have been home on the range blasting away at clay targets.

No Good Reason Why House Rents Should Be Raised, Irvine Declares

Portrait of Mayor Harry Irvine, who declared there is no good reason why house rents should be raised.

There is no good reason why house rents should be increased in Cumberland in the opinion of Mayor Harry Irvine.

The mayor commented on the subject yesterday afternoon after he had been informed that many landlords have either boosted rents in recent months or are planning to do so.

Irvine admitted that prices have taken a big jump lately but this should have no bearing on rents because the city tax rate remains at $1.10, the same as a year ago, and the county tax rate has been reduced from $1.53 to $1.43.

"Many persons take advantage of the situation when prices of food and clothing are increased," commented Irvine. "For instance grocers mark up goods that have been on the shelves for many months and landlords put in their oar as soon as they discover that industrial wages are raised."

Irvine added that many complaints relative to increases in rent followed on the heels of signing a contract at the Celanese plant in which 10,000 workers will receive pay boosts of approximately $4 weekly.

"The race for the good old American dollar is the greatest in the world," remarked the mayor. "Just at a time when a worker feels that he is finally out in front there is the grocer, the butcher and the landlord to nip him at the wire."

Insurance Agents Will Hear Selsor At Convention

Will Be First of Five Speakers at State Meeting Here Oct. 23-25

Five speakers will take part in the fifth annual convention of the Maryland Association of Insurance Agents which will be held at the Fort Cumberland hotel here October 23, 24 and 25.

Frederick W. Selsor, of New York city, will be the first speaker at the convention. The general theme of the meeting will be "The Agent's Position in National Defense." Selsor will speak on the topic "Suretyship in the Defense Picture."

Selsor was born in Higginsville, Mo., and received his early education in nearby schools and later graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology and the Chicago College of Law with an LL.B. degree.

Legal To Train Dogs on Sunday, Minke Announces

Trainer Must Have License; Garrett Hunter Fined $25 on First Day

It is legal to train dogs in the woods on Sunday, provided the trainer has no firearms in his possession, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

Minke made the statement in answer to numerous requests from sportsmen who confused the training law with that which forbids hunting or killing of game on Sundays during the regular season.

Those who train dogs on Sunday, however, must have a hunting license in their possession and a tag displayed on the back of their jacket, Minke declared.

One hunter got away to a bad start yesterday as the twenty-day squirrel season opened in Garrett county, Minke reported. Elton McKenzie, of Grantsville, was arrested by Francis Ruge and Theodore Thoeis, deputy game wardens, on a charge of hunting with a gun holding more than three shells, on Red Ridge. At a hearing before Magistrate C. S. Zeller in Grantsville, McKenzie was fined $25, according to Minke.

Intermittent showers were welcomed yesterday by game wardens, especially in Garrett county, where the hunters swung into action in search of squirrel. Minke said the showers will be a big relief to the parched and baked soil and will keep the woods damp, thus eliminating forest fire hazards which are prevalent during the hunting season.

The regional game warden reported squirrels were not so plentiful on inaugural day.
